

New Brunswick Teacher Association Centennial Award

Nomination Form

The NBTA Centennial Award is the highest honour bestowed by the New Brunswick Teachers' Association. Established in Canada's Centennial Year 1967, the award is presented each year to an individual in recognition of having made a significant contribution to education in New Brunswick. Nominees can include persons who have died during the 24-month period immediately prior to the presentation of the award. Although there are no restrictions on eligibility except as based on the criteria noted above, the Centennial Award has traditionally honoured a long and prestigious career of involvement in the profession. The Centennial Committee receives nominations forwarded by branches or individual members.
